

Using the Wetland Mapping Consortium (WMC) Scholar Site

June 29, 2011

Jane Awl (ASWM)
John Galbraith (VT)
Megan Lang (USDA)

WMC General Purpose

WMC fosters collaborations and disseminates data and findings for the purpose of enhanced wetland mapping and monitoring.

WMC Objectives:

- Build collaborative teams to enable rapid and thorough response to calls for relevant proposals.
- Organize a pool of experts who can respond to requests for more information about wetland mapping techniques and technologies.

WMC Scholar Site

<http://clic.cses.vt.edu/WMC/>

Utilizes Virginia Tech's Scholar Site <https://scholar.vt.edu/portal> based on the Sakai Project (<http://sakaiproject.org/>) open source suite of learning, portfolio, library and project tools.

Collaborative resources include:

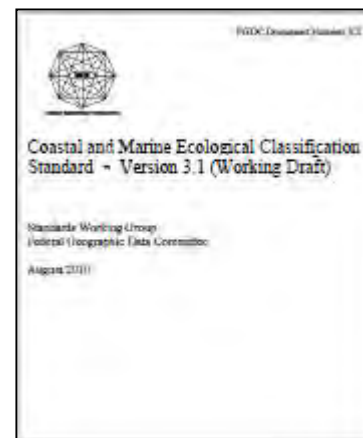

- File Sharing
- Discussion Forums
- Email Lists
- Chat Room
- Events Calendar
- Blogs
- Announcements
- Polls

Scholar Sites:

- Project/Research sites are designed to facilitate collaboration.
- You can invite all your collaborators to join your project site.
- Using a web browser, you can choose from features and functions to create project sites that meet your needs.
- Examples:
 - A project director can make announcements and share resources, such as electronic documents or links to other websites and collaborate with other colleagues
 - A group can electronically work on documents or materials collaboratively
 - A group can provide a site that serves as an online discussion board

Working groups using the WMC Scholar Site include:

- Wetlands Mapping Standard Workgroup (WMSWG)
- Wetlands Classification Standard Maintenance Working Group (WCSMWG)
- Coastal and Marine Ecological Classification Standard Working Group (CMECS)
- Southeast Wetland Workgroup (SEWWG)

Can the WMC help your project move forward?

- ❖ Utilize WMC communication tools and resources to foster collaboration.
- ❖ Individual project resource areas and member lists, such as for working groups, can be set up within the WMC.
