

Wetland News Digest Sponsorship Opportunities

Wetland News Digest (WND) sponsorship provides the perfect opportunity for your business to increase its visibility with members of the wetlands and water resources community and reinforce your continued commitment to wetlands in the U.S. Take advantage of this opportunity to promote your company in Wetland News Digest which will prominently display your ad or company's logo and website link in the publication sent to over 3,000 subscribers and on the online issue of the newsletter. For more information, please contact Laura Burchill at (207) 892-3399 or laura@nawm.org.

Sponsorship opportunities are available for every budget (Rates are per issue):

| | 1 Issue | 3 Issues | 6 Issues | 9 Issues | 12 Issues |
|----------------------------|----------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|------------------|
| Banner Ad and Link: | $500 | $450 | $400 | $350 | $300 |
| Logo and Link: | $250 | $225 | $200 | $175 | $150 |

Logo/Link

(size is approximate)

Banner Ad/Link
(size is approximate)

Please note, placement of Banner Ad/Logo is approximate.

Banner ad in WND email

WETLAND NEWS DIGEST
Monthly News Digest of the National Association of Wetland Managers February 2022

Home -- About -- Join -- Donate

February 2022 Edition of Wetland News Digest

The full edition (PDF) of the February 2022 Issue of Wetland News Digest is available here <https://www.nawm.org/wnd/Q21522.pdf> and includes News, Jobs, Events, and More.

Editor's Note

Dear Wetlanders,

I am thrilled to bring you the first issue of Wetland News Digest as the National Association of Wetland Managers, or NAWM (sounds like "nom nom").

In the Editor's Choice section, we shine the spotlight on inspiring women in science from Washington Department of Ecology and Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control in honor of International Day of Women and Girls in Science (Feb 11). And it's only fitting to celebrate women in wetlands and World Wetlands Day (Feb. 2) with Wetlands Sake, a new woman-owned brewery in New Orleans made with locally-grown rice. Cheers!

Photo by Sharon Wilcox, FAWM

Your Banner Ad Here

Banner ad in WND newsletter

WETLAND NEWS DIGEST
Monthly News Digest of the National Association of Wetland Managers February 2022

Dear Wetlanders

I am thrilled to bring you the first issue of Wetland News Digest as the National Association of Wetland Managers, or NAWM (sounds like "nom nom").

In the Editor's Choice section, we shine the spotlight on inspiring women in science from Washington Department of Ecology and Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control in honor of International Day of Women and Girls in Science (Feb 11). And it's only fitting to celebrate women in wetlands and World Wetlands Day (Feb. 2) with Wetlands Sake, a new woman-owned brewery in New Orleans made with locally-grown rice. Cheers!

In national policy, news continues on the effects of an unsteady definition of Waters of the U.S. (WOTUS). This month NAWM submitted comments on the revised WOTUS definition, which you'll find in Editor's Choice.

This issue also includes several stories highlighting many different ways we value wetlands—culturally, ecologically, and economically. A pre-publication report (forthcoming in American Economic Review) from Resources for the Future quantifies the benefits of wetlands for reducing flood damages. As you'll read in several studies, wetland plants may provide beneficial insights as we adapt to climate change and rising oceans.

My heart lightens with accounts of everyday people interacting with and appreciating wetlands in their neighborhoods and communities. Writing to you from Maine, our lakes, ponds and wetlands are all frozen over, and I enjoy the new perspective that comes from connecting with these spaces that are inaccessible by foot in other times of year. I find myself getting still and quiet as I crouch among the reeds and cattails and investigate animal tracks left behind in the snow. In contrast to the daily wave of changes our world presents, winter reminds us of our need to pause. I encourage you to find moments each day to be still and just breathe. And if it's available to you, enjoy a frozen wetland.

Audra Martin
Editor, Wetland News Digest
NAWM

Know of an interesting news story? Share it with us at news@aswm.org and you may see it featured in the next issue!

Editor's Note

In this Issue

- Editor's Choice
- National News
- State and Tribal News
- Wetland Science News
- Resources/Publications
- Potpourri
- Calendar of Events
- Index

Your Banner Ad Here

Banner Ad on WND Webpage

NAWM • Webinars & Trainings • Publications • Science • Wetland Programs • Law & Policy • Jobs Board • Donate • Join Log In

Wetland News Digest

Wetland News Digest is an edited compilation of wetland-related stories and announcements submitted by readers and gleaned from scientific papers, news releases and news sources from throughout the United States. The newsletter features legislative, national and state news relevant to wetland science and policy, wetland regulations and legal analysis of Supreme court cases. It also links to new publications and resources available to wetland professionals as well as events and training opportunities for those working in water resources and related fields. It is distributed to over 4,000 readers. Wetland News Digest (formerly known as "Wetland Breaking News") has been published since 2006.

Sign up for WND

Current Issue [February 2022]

Archived Issues

Wetland News Digest \(WWD\) Sponsorship Opportunities

Wetland News Digest sponsorship provides the perfect opportunity for your business to increase its visibility with members of the wetlands and water resources community and reinforce your continued commitment to wetlands in the U.S. Take advantage of this opportunity to promote your company in Wetland News Digest, which will prominently display your ad or company's logo and website link in the publication. Sponsors will be recognized on the Wetland News Digest homepage, in the e-newsletter/email sent to over 4,000 subscribers and on the online issue of the newsletter. For more information, click here.

Your Banner Ad Here

Join NAWM and Support Wetlands Protection

What do you have in common with NAWM members? We know you share a vested interest in accurate wetlands information, state and tribal environmental programs, federal agencies and wetland professionals rely on NAWM to bring analyses and information about wetlands to light—reflected through a balanced lens.

By joining the Association, your membership will support a high volume of projects and services in addition to Wetland Breaking News. There are several ways to join NAWM. JOIN OR RENEW NOW! or make a charitable donation. DONATE NOW!

Logo/Link in WND email

WETLAND NEWS DIGEST
Monthly News Digest of the National Association of Wetland Managers February 2022

Home -- About -- Join -- Donate

February 2022 Edition of Wetland News Digest

The full edition (PDF) of the February 2022 Issue of Wetland News Digest is available here <https://www.nawm.org/wnd/021522.pdf> and includes News, Jobs, Events, and More.

Editor's Note

Dear Wetlanders,

I am thrilled to bring you the first issue of Wetland News Digest as the National Association of Wetland Managers, or NAWM (sounds like "nom nom").

In the Editor's Choice section, we shine the spotlight on inspiring women in science from Washington Department of Ecology and Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control in honor of International Day of Women and Girls in Science (Feb 11). And it's only fitting to celebrate women in wetlands and World Wetlands Day (Feb. 2) with Wetlands Sake, a new woman-owned brewery in New Orleans made with locally-grown rice. Cheers!

Wetlands continues on the effects of an unsteady definition (WOTUS). This month NAWM submitted comments on the revised WOTUS definition, which you'll find in Editor's Choice.

(Photo by Sherron Weaver, NAWM)

Logo/Link

Logo/Link in WND newsletter

WETLAND NEWS DIGEST
Monthly News Digest of the National Association of Wetland Managers February 2022

Dear Wetlanders

I am thrilled to bring you the first issue of Wetland News Digest as the National Association of Wetland Managers, or NAWM (sounds like "nom nom").

In the Editor's Choice section, we shine the spotlight on inspiring women in science from Washington Department of Ecology and Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control in honor of International Day of Women and Girls in Science (Feb 11). And it's only fitting to celebrate women in wetlands and World Wetlands Day (Feb. 2) with Wetlands Sake, a new woman-owned brewery in New Orleans made with locally-grown rice. Cheers!

In national policy, news continues on the effects of an unsteady definition of Waters of the U.S. (WOTUS). This month NAWM submitted comments on the revised WOTUS definition, which you'll find in Editor's Choice.

This issue also includes several stories highlighting many different ways we value wetlands—culturally, ecologically, and economically. A pre-publication report (forthcoming in American Economic Review) from Resources for the Future quantifies the benefits of wetlands for reducing flood damages. As you'll read in several studies, wetland plants may provide beneficial insights as we adapt to climate change and rising oceans.

My heart lightens with accounts of everyday people interacting with and appreciating wetlands in their neighborhoods and communities. Writing to you from Maine, our lakes, ponds and wetlands are all frozen over, and I enjoy the new perspective that comes from connecting with these spaces that are inaccessible by foot in other times of year. I find myself getting still and quiet as I crouch among the reeds and cattails and investigate animal tracks left behind in the snow. In contrast to the daily wave of changes our world presents, winter reminds us of our need to pause. I encourage you to find moments each day to be still and just breathe. And if it's available to you

Audra Martin
Editor, Wetland News Digest
NAWM

Know of an interesting news story? Share it with us at news@aswm.org and the next issue!

Logo/Link

In this Issue

- Editor's Choice
- National News
- State and Tribal News
- Wetland Science News
- Resources/Publications
- Potpourri
- Calendar of Events
- Index

Logo/Link on WND webpage

NAWM - Webinars & Trainings - Publications - Science - Wetland Programs - Law & Policy - Jobs Board - Donate - Join - Log In

Wetland News Digest

Wetland News Digest is an edited compilation of wetland-related stories and announcements submitted by readers and gleaned from list-serve, press releases and news sources from throughout the United States. The newsletter features legislative, national and state news relevant to wetland science and policy, wetland regulations and legal analysis of Supreme court cases. It also links to new publications and resources available to wetland professionals as well as events and training opportunities for those working in water resources and related fields. It is distributed to over 4,000 readers. Wetland News Digest (formerly known as "Wetland Breaking News") has been published since 1999.

Sign up for WND
Current Issue [February 2021]
Archived Issues

Wetland News Digest (WND) Sponsorship Opportunities

Wetland News Digest sponsorship provides the perfect opportunity for your business to increase its visibility with members of the wetlands or water resources community and reinforce your continued commitment to wetlands in the U.S. Take advantage of this opportunity to promote your company in Wetland News Digest, which will prominently display your ad or company's logo and website link in the publication. Sponsors will be recognized on the Wetland News Digest homepage, in the e-newsletter/email sent to over 4,000 subscribers and on the online issue of the journal.

Join NAWM and Support Wetlands Protection

What do you have in common with NAWM members? We know you share a vested interest in accurate wetlands information, state and tribal environmental programs, federal agencies and wetland professionals rely on NAWM to bring analyses and information about wetlands to light, reflected through a balanced lens.

By joining the Association, your membership will support a high volume of projects and services in addition to Wetland Breaking News. There are several ways to join NAWM. JOIN OR RENEW NOW or make a charitable donation. DONATE NOW.

2019 Annual Meeting Participants. Photo credit: John McShane

What Wetlandkeepers & Readers Say About NAWM and WND

To have Wetland News Digest delivered to your e-mail box, click here.

"WETLAND NEWS DIGEST" Compiled by Tessa Reulien, Intern, NAWM; Edited by Maria Stell, Executive Director; Assistant Editors: Laura Burchill, NAWM and Sharon Weaves, NAWM.

DISCLAIMER: The editor reserves all rights to decide what should be included in this publication. Publication in Wetland News Digest (WND) does not indicate endorsement or accuracy of any article or book included, sold or mentioned. It is up to the reader to make that determination. All copyrighted material is rewritten or excerpted to pass the fair use law or permission has been given for NAWM to use. Since the editor can't guarantee the accuracy of the articles, NAWM is not liable for anything said in an article. Documented corrections of an item included in WND will be considered for posting as a "Letter to the Editor." To find an article previously published in WND just search the Archives on the website. If you have any suggestions, articles or announcements you wish to see posted in WND please e-mail news@nawm.org.

Logo/Link